PICKENS, S. C.: THURSDAY NOVEMBER 25, 1909,

Died, at the home of his sonin-law, in our city, Friday morning, "Uncle Jere" Looper, aged eighty-seven years.

He was a man of generous impulses and never forgot the hospitable ways of the pioneer. The stranger, even though a beggar, never failed to find food hands, and he was at home by the bedside of the sick and delighted in all kind and neighborly offices. He had borne adversity bravely and enjoyed pros perity quietly. He had filled the various relations of life, as son, husband, father, brother, friend, and filled them well.

Who can do more? But he is gone! Another name is stricken from the ever lessening roll of our old settlers, and a solitary woman in the sunset of life, and a lonely home are left to attest how sadly they will miss him. It must be so; these tender human ties cannot be severed without a pang. Yet in such a death there is really no cause for grief. His life work was done, and well done. He had passed his golden wedding day and wearied with life's duties and cares, weary of suffering and awaiting, he lay down to rest. He was a man of excellent habits, fine moral character, and sturdy constitution, and he continued to be active in his accustomed pursuits till long past the age at which men ordinarily drop out of the ranks as workers. To this end there is no doubt largely contributed. There was trine of eternal punishment, he a daily beauty about his life which won every heart. In temperament he was mild, conciliatory, and candid; and yet remarkable for an uncompromising firmness.

He believed in 'he fatherhood man. He believed that the man who scatters flowers in the pathinto the dark places of life the star." The evening star is sunshine of human sympathy and human happiness, is following in the footsteps of his master.

How much this community owes him and such as he, it is impossible to estimate, though it would be a grateful task to trace his influence through some of the more direct channels, to hold him up in his various characters of husband and father, of neighbor and friend, but it comes not in the scope of this brief article to do so. out and signed a deed conveying all his slaves to Abraham Lincoln and with the deed sent a letter telling the President he could pay for them at such time as it suited the Government. After the war he was a pronounced republican, and as unpopular as such politics was in his section, he offended no one. He was always more of a white man than anything else. When resconstruction came he lined up with his neighbor democrats and voted and worked for Wade Hampton. He always preached white supremacy and was uncompromising in his opposition to any alliance with the negro in shape or form, or for any purpose. He was never afraid to speak in public and always had a respectful hearing. His honesty and earnestness commanded it. He could differ from his neighbor

His idea of who and what the United States ought to have for President was fully met in the election of William H. Taft. He predicted that his administration would wipe out the last vestige of sectional prejudice and begin the greatest reforms that had ever been undertaken in the nation. He wrote the President to this effect from his sick room, and received a most kindly reply over the Presidents own signa-

Does Not Stimulate

Aver's Sarsaparilla does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. It is not a strong drink. No reaction after you stop using it. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic and alterative. We wish you would ask your doctor about this. He knows. Trust him. Do as he says. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

What are Ayer's Pills? Liver Pills. How long have they been sold? Nearly sixty years. Do doctors recommend them? Ask your own doctor and find out.

COLOR in Fabrics

Will be a marked feature of the fall and winter season; a great variety of beautiful patterns is being shown.

Some of the new colorings are so attractive that men are apt to neglect the plain blue serge or black

We advise you to have at least one good blue or black suit, in addition to the fancy, colored weaves; and a black or Oxford Gray Overcoat, in addition to the fancy fabric.

This permits a change, and gives each suit a rest; to get cleaned and pressed. It prolongs the life of all your clothes, to treat them this way.

Look into our show windows, you will see there a display of new models from some of the foremost makers, they represent the latest fashions, and you will spot them at once as Yours to please, winners,
